Swimming Pool To Open on June 30th

How Long it will Remain Open Depends on Support.

The annual meeting of the swimming pool Association was held last Monday evening.

Although the attendance was not so large as it should have been for an undertaking which means so much to the children and young people of the town, those present decided to reorganize and run the pool as long as present finances will permit. It was also made quite plain that the pool will remain open only so long as the citizens give it the necessary financial support.

Instructions were given to have the usual season tickets printed and offered for sale to the heads of families and all those interested in seeing the pool in operation.

It is expected the pool will be ready to open on June 30th. The committee has enough capital on hand to keep it in operation three or four weeks. How much longer it will be kept going will all depend on how many tickets are sold and how well it is patronized. It is now up to the public.

The following officers were elected for the year:

President—Mayor Worts.
Vice Pres.—Ed. L. Stone.
Secy. Treas.—C. T. Hall.
Ex. Com.—Messrs. T. Palmer, W. Campeau, G. Lowens, W. West, H. Sangster, F. Baird, E. Waller, L. Tringth.

It was decided to hold a carnival of Aquatic Sports at the pool on July 16th and Dr. Ward and H. Champ were appointed a committee to make the necessary arrangements for same.

Good Program For

Cameo Next Monday

The Varsity Drag and others of the ultra-modern dances are demonstrated by experts in the art of jazzstephens in the course of a dancing contest which figures in "Ceneline," a Pathe Picture directed by Melville Brown, which will be presented at the Cameo Theatre on Monday next. A ballroom scene also presents a zestful picture of modern youth in its play hours.

Eddie Quillian, popular young comedian, is featured in "Ceneline," which was produced by Paul Bern. Marion Nixon fills the role, with Gaston Glass, Albert Gran, and other notable players in other important characterizations.

Caray Wilson wrote the screen adaptation of "Ceneline," which is based on a Booth Tarkington story. George Dromgold and Peggy Pryor are responsible for the continuity of this lively and amusing comedy of the average boy and girl of today.

There will also be a good comedy, "The Unkissed Man" and a Pathe Review.

PRESIDENT HOOVER SIGNS TARIFF BILL

Eighteen months in the making, the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill received the Presidential assent position of the country. Pres. Coolidge, finally settling out the position of the United States, with regard to the host of commodities entering the country, President Hoover signed the bill in which Vice President Charles Curtis' signature was fixed Monday.

Last Tuesday July when dropped below the dollar mark on the Winnipeg market. However the pendulum swung back on Tuesday when it advanced to 1.03 1/2.

Mr. A. B. Smith, of Rossland, B. C., president of the Dominion Greenhouse here, has been in town for the past week on business in connection with the plant.

MILLARD—In Castor on June 5th, 1930, to Mr. and Mrs. Mac Millard (nee Dora Hicks), a son. The Review made a mistake in this item last week.

Canada exports more manufactured goods per head of the population than any other country in the world. The figures are—Canada, $44.87; Great Britain, $45.97; Germany, $22.61; France, $20.53; and the United States, $22.35. It takes the export of one American plus one German plus $2.95 to equal the exports of one Canadian.

The demand for quarter sections of 160 acres, of free homestead land in the prairie provinces, given by the Canadian government to settlers, continues to increase. In the first three months of this year there were 254 entries received representing 40,140 acres, as compared with 243 entries representing 35,446 acres in the corresponding months of last year.

New Championship Golf Course

George S. Lyon, Canada's Grand Old Man of Golf, with the fairway with the first ball driven from No. 1 tee of the Royal York Golf course, when this new championship course, built by the Canadian Pacific Railway for the benefit of guests of Canada's premier hotel, was formally opened in the presence of Their Excellencies Lord and Lady Willingdon.

This 18-hole course, claimed by players to be one of the best on the continent, has a par of 72 with a length of 6,510 yards. All Toronto golf clubs were represented at the opening and prominent guests of the Dominion came together here for the occasion. This course has been selected as the scene of the annual interprovincial team match on August 2, and many tournaments in connection with the match, including the monster one of the Brintons, will be staged there. Lay-out shows the 110,000 Club-house of the course with a view of the Royal York Hotel.

Tourist Traffic On The Increase

Canadians also Spend Millions on 'Holidays'.

Tourists coming to Canada last year left almost $300,000,000 of cash wealth in the Dominion and showed that Canadian scenery can produce a revenue which ranks only below agriculture and manufacturing in importance.

Figures just issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics are to the effect that $292,745,000 were spent by visitors to the Dominion in 1929, as compared with $252,734,000, when the first check on the value of the annual tourists trade was kept.

This increase is one of approximately 20 per cent over a ten year term, and its far larger than any equally important Canadian industry can show over the same period of time.

More than two-thirds of the amount was spent by motor car tourists from the United States who last year drove 4,508,360 cars across the international border, as compared with 3,675,431 in the year preceding. They left $208,744,000 as a result of their visits to the Dominion which sum is more than $25,000,000 larger than in the preceding twelve months.

Canadians too spend money abroad in making holiday trips, and in the past year are estimated to have taken Canadian money to the value of $111,301,000 out of the Dominion. This sum is some $10,500,000 more than they spent in 1928. But while this sum is large it leaves a favorable balance of trade for the Dominion which comes close to $189,000,000 for the past year.

Some good work is being done on the streets this week. The road from Broadway into the Glass plant has been greatly improved and Broadway is being treated to remove the corduroy effect.

Brethren Church Here Is Holding Revivals

PAULIP C. RARRICK Preaching and Singing Evangelist.

Will Probably Finish on Next Sunday Evening.

(Contributed.)

Evangelist Rarrick, from Indiana is assisting the local Brethren in a revival. Sunday the 8th was the beginning of these interesting and helpful meetings and the last preaching service will probably be next Sunday evening.

The evening services begin promptly at 8:00 o'clock. There will also be one at 11:30 A. M. and another at 3:30 P. M. Sunday.

Pastor Zeigler and his people are working earnestly with the evangelist to make this campaign a blessing to Redcliff. The meetings are not for a few but for everybody. The singing is inspirational and the messages heart-warming. Mr. Rarrick forcefully preaches the Gospel.

The football games billed for the next week are: Calles and Legion on Friday, June 20th.

Calles and Legion and Redcliff in Medicine Hat, Tuesday, June 24th, Five Roses. Redcliff and Brick & Coal here on Thursday, June 26th, League. The game next Thursday will complete the schedule arranged to that date.

Redcliff Town at Top of the League

Defeat Legion 2-1 in Game Last Tuesday.

Redcliff Town football team won another league game last Tuesday evening by defeating the Legion in Medicine Hat by a score of 2-1.

Although the wind interfered considerably with the game it proved a good one for the spectators.

With the wind in their favor the Legion started out with a rush and within five minutes they scored the first goal. This appeared to waken the visitors to the seriousness of the situation and although play was kept well up on their goal, the defence made a series of good saves and prevented any more scoring for the balance of the period.

Favored with the wind in the second period Redcliff turned the tables and kept up a continuous attack for the rest of the period. Their efforts were rewarded soon after the change when Dick Phillips made a neat score. This was quickly followed by another dangerous attack when H. Henderson and Wainwright worked to within a few feet of the goal mouth but lost the opportunity by an unfortunate fumble.

Before the whistle, however, Henderson got revenge by landing a nice one and winning the game.

This puts Redcliff Town at the top of the list in the league games played so far, with two points to the good. The teams lined up as follows:

Redcliff Town—Hope, T. Davis, G. Davis, J. Podesta, Gibson, J. Davis, E. Podesta, W. Phillips, Henderson, Wainwright and D. Phillips.

Legion—Hall, Harvey, Givin, McCull, Renwick, A. Thomson, McCarthy, Appleton, Melvor, Morrissey and Matchett.

Referee—H. G. Goldie.

Candidates Hold Meetings Last Week

All are Well Attended and Efforts Appreciated.

Last Thursday Evening Mr. Long, Liberal Candidate, addressed the electors here. Tuesday of this week Mr. Blanchard, Conservative, held a meeting. Both meetings were well attended and at both the musical program and addresses were much enjoyed. On Wednesday evening Mr. Bulfinch the Independent addressed the electors.

As the campaign is over at the time of going to press we refrain from reporting the meetings in full.

NEW APPOINTMENT TO CANADIAN CABINET

Dr. Cyrus MacMillan, professor of English at McGill University was appointed Minister of Fisheries at Saturday's cabinet meeting. F. W. McKay, ex-member for Brumme-Mistiquet, was appointed minister without portfolio. The appointment of Mr. McKay gives cabinet representation to the Protestant minority in Quebec, which representation has been lacking since the death of Hon. James A. Robb.

Messrs. Ross McLachlan, J. Allanback, S. Mathany and M. Moore spent a day's fishing at Lake Newell. They report poor luck for this time of year.

In the Five Buses Cup football series the Legion has one point lead over Redcliff Town for 1st place. The Legion has played one more game than Redcliff in this competition.

A resolution suggesting the introduction of a compulsory wheel pool in Alberta was turned down by an overwhelming majority at the meeting of pool delegates from all parts of the province, in the Palliser Hotel, on Saturday morning.

Plan Your Town—Save Your Money

Abel Simon—Little Boy, "Bad No Walks" In His Head

Another day the writer heard a conversation between two men on the street. One said, "What's all this, a town plan?" The other said, "Town planning?" "What is town-planning?" Another said to waste people's money?"

"No," said the other man, "It's just another plan to save people's lives and health and money besides."

He was right. Town-planning, done properly and early enough in the life of a growing town or city, does all those things. Perhaps the simplest illustration we have in history of town-planning is, however, a little unfortunate. When the great city of Rome was expanding in the centuries following the formation of the Roman Empire, the highly civilized Romans were as anxious to reach the old buildings and crowded narrow streets that they put on a sort of private agitation with the result that, in the long run, the older parts of the city were fired, and Rome burned.

Whether or not that be true, no one today advocates such drastic measures for paying the way for town-planning. It is today based upon common sense, and the fact that the municipal authorities, for the general good of the public, so that the city or town may be built in a proper, healthy, sanitation, convenience and healthy and pleasant living arrangements.

Consider the important question of sanitation. If a city grows haphazard, as most cities have done in the past, without its leaders giving a jealous eye to the future, that city's cleaning bills may be unnecessarily high. Expensive projects may have to be expeditiously in order to lay sewers and water mains, or to put in pumping stations or filters. Town planning looks ahead and prevents such unnecessary expense.

Those of us who live in Toronto see every day a traffic jam on Yonge Street, have been averted by town-planning. Yonge Street, Toronto's main street, is too narrow to accommodate its traffic. Town planning is now considering plans to re-model its downtown area. In other words, to town-planning which will cost billions of dollars that might have been saved had the civic fathers of years ago been able to foresee something of the city's growth and the complexity of twentieth-century civilization.

But from the standpoint of health, one of the most important considerations of the town-planning is playground space—parks as a rule. In Canada the growth of a city usually, in fact one might say always, an industrial growth. The growth of the Ontario city of Ottawa is an example. A number of industries, for reasons of convenience or costs, suddenly decide to take up their position at one point. The area thus favored is apt to grow with great rapidity, and unless the public men are statesmen who think in decades or even in generations instead of just terms of office, the growth of the new industrial center from a village to a town or a city is apt to be haphazard.

Thus a city choked by its own growth, and by the very life that makes it great, is handicapped as a place in which to live, and its value as a commercial center is lessened.

Proper planning of parks is a tremendous factor in the solution of this problem. For when a growing city takes trouble to lay out a system of parks, it will, chance are, give head to the streets in proximity to those parks. And insofar as the health of the city is concerned, parks are vitally important.

It must be borne in mind at all times, that many people who will benefit most from the addition of parks to a city, will not take advantage of them unless they are made as easy as possible to reach. That is why you notice in most well-planned cities, that the parks are arranged so as to be on two sides of a street, so that just as many people as possible can take advantage of their beauties.

"Do you buy a big flying pan and a palon of oil?" "What for?" "I am going fishing!"—Pages Gates, Yreland.

W. N. O. 1333

If streets are planned so that the outside edges of the city are not too far to reach, the result in a great many cities has been artistic suburban sections where rents are cheap and working people live in happiness and health. In this case, traffic conditions permit them to cover more distance in a shorter space of time in getting back and forth to their work, than was possible if the conditions had not been studied in advance instead of letting them take their own natural course.

The habits of the citizens the nature of the soil, the levels of the land and a hundred matters come into the scheme of things in town-planning, but they are mostly problems for the engineers and the technical men. Nevertheless, they are of extreme importance and difficult to handle if there is not complete harmony in making the arrangements between the owners of the land and the people who are doing the planning.

Some cities have found themselves in a position where they could insist that every house must have a plot of ground behind it, because of an enviable state of things and one of every municipality should seek.

When one starts to grow a garden, one can only try to get so that all the plants will have breathing space and matter how thick the growth may be, the soil is not so thick in one place, we do what we can think about.

It is rather difficult to "think out" a city, so we must do all our thinking in town-planning in advance.

It is, however, only in recent years that town-planning has become a very active feature of our municipal life. Many cities and towns are appointing committees to guide the destinies of their municipalities. They work on the principle, as the saying is, "The future of the city is in the hands of the present." The development of these far-seeing cities and towns will not be by accident; it will be the result of thoughtful arrangement with the health and comfort of the majority constantly in view.

People Expect Courtesy

Firms Hope Employees Are Pleased To Do Better Business

The public on mass may not be completely polite, but it desires respectful consideration from the employees of the concerns with which it may be doing business. It expects courteous and kind answers to its questions no matter how foolish and unnecessary they may seem to the employees. The public has to be familiar with what the initiated may seem simple procedure, they do not wish to be treated as a bunch of "Rubes." The public takes its self-respect rather seriously and if shown disrespect is likely to transfer its business to other concerns where it can get courtesy with its funds or its bread without extra cost. Many people labor recognize this and insist that their employees always be courteous no matter what the provocation.

This requires training and discipline. A youth cannot become courteous overnight. Courtesy cannot be taught in a garage. It must be inbred if it is to stand the hard usages of life. More attention, we think, must be given by the home and the school in instilling and developing the spirit of courtesy within the young.

No young man, no matter how well educated he may be, is fit to assume public duties unless he is always able to manifest courtesy toward others. The age of chivalry may be dead, as Burke said many years ago. But the age of courtesy will never die. Wise are the youths who realize the great potentialities of courtesy, and how essential it is to success. It should not be forgotten that while it will bring financial reward it insures something more to be desired than even this: the esteem of one's fellow men.

Grows Millions Of Radishes

Texas Man Raises More Than Anyone In World

Upon the 1,400-acre farm of E. C. Cizek, Caldwell, Tex., laborers are employed gathering radishes and beets for shipment to the markets of the north and east. Caldwell has 700 acres planted in radishes, and has already shipped 400 carloads, and still has approximately 200 carloads to gather before the season is closed. Each acre contains approximately 10,000 bunches of radishes and the total number of bunches shipped by the end of the season will be around 60,000,000. Mr. Caldwell is said to be the largest radish grower in the world.

The Young Man: "I've come to see you about your daughter."

The Old Man: "The lady she slept last night with a young fool who has no money."

The Young Man: "You're right about the money—but I'm not a fool."

Similarity Between Indians and Chinese

Both Have Great Reverence For Their Women Ancestors

The modern Indian, no longer adheres to primitive ways in many of the matters touching his daily life. But he has been a long time in being regarded for the tribal customs of the long ago when it comes to methods of government.

By a ballot vote of the residents on the Oneida Reserve, in Ontario, it has been decided that the women shall continue to elect the Chiefs and Council. Thus the modernistic tendencies of the younger generation, a generation that rides in automobiles and has been educated in a modern academic and vocational school, have been squelched for the time being.

It is not surprising that modernism should seek to find expression in the exercise of the franchise. In this case the modernism took the form of demanding votes for men; not votes for women. Therein lies the difference between the Indians and the Chinese, looking at things and the ways of the white man.

Presumably the method descends from the ancient belief in reverence for ancestors and the principle to which the Indian elevates motherhood. The Chinese is even more strongly married in the Chinese, who are the most ancient ancestor worshippers in the world, particularly of women who are the heads of families.

The most powerful figure in a Chinese family is a grandmother. Her word is law in matters concerning anything that pertains to family affairs, even her eldest son being a man. Her word is law in matters concerning anything that pertains to family affairs, even her eldest son being a man. Her word is law in matters concerning anything that pertains to family affairs, even her eldest son being a man.

The Sea's Greatest Depth

Spot Near Philippines Is Just Short Of Seven Miles

Soundings of the Mindanao Deep in the Pacific Ocean, near the Philippines, proved recently that the sea's greatest depth is 35,410 feet. This is just short of seven miles. In such a hole the highest peak would be lost more than a mile below the waves. From the top of Mount Everest to the bottom of Mindanao Deep is a vertical drop of little over twelve miles. Accurate and rapid measurement of these great depths was made possible by the "sonic depth finder," a device developed during the World War, that uses the echo from the ocean's floor in making its soundings. If the bed of the ocean is 35,410 feet deep, it would be a great pit, 27,972 feet deep, would be found near Porto Rico, marking the spot of the Atlantic's greatest depth. A plateau would be found near the Azores and a vast table land would appear near Newfoundland.

A typical cross section of the ocean made by the U.S. warship "Stetson" in 1922, in spite of enormous depression, proves that great stretches of the ocean's floor are comparatively level.

The Maple Sugar Industry

People Of Canada Can Consume All That Is Produced

That Toronto newspaper which says that the maple syrup and sugar industry of Canada faces ruin because under the new United States tariff the price of these products is to be higher than in the United States, is a little out of its mind. The amount of maple sugar and syrup made in Canada is small and is growing smaller, not because of hostile tariffs, but for the reason that maple groves are becoming fewer in number and smaller in size. Should not a drop of maple syrup or an ounce of maple sugar have Canada, the people of the Dominion can easily consume all of it. These are nonsense articles of the kind which people of this country would do well to use more. People of the prairie provinces would be glad to have available to them all of these products they want.

Sunshine Is Essential

Poultry House Should Face South Or South-East

Experience has taught that the poultry house should face the south or south-east. This is important as it admits the maximum of sunshine which is the cheapest disinfectant. However, it is not convenient to build a permanent house with its face to the south, the Dominion Poultry House, in the new bulletin No. 132, of the Department of Agriculture, at Ottawa, states that good results have been obtained by putting a row of windows along the back of the house under the drop-board. When this is done, the light of the sun is able to have the windows tight so that no draught will strike the hens.

Another suggestion contained in the bulletin is that where permanent poultry buildings are being constructed that they be planned so that they may be enlarged or added to as poultry operations grow.

Always Pays

A St. Louis man who was quartered in a small French village during the war, where he struck up an intimate friendship with one of its citizens, has received word that his friend thus acquired has bequeathed him an old brick house valued at $27,000.

Kindness does not always pay in such large financial returns, but it always pays.

"Polly" on the Air

John Galt's second comic opera, "Polly," which forms a sequel to "The Beggars' Opera," following the recently Captain MacLachlan from a London goal to scenes of new adventure in the West Indies, and introducing the celebrated Polly Peachum, was presented for the first time on air on Sunday, May 11, from 9.15 to 9.45 p.m., eastern daylight saving time, in the Canadian Pacific Railway's programme of music from station W22 and twelve associated stations of the National Broadcasting Company.

The following well-known Canadian artists took part in this presentation: Jeanne Duhamel, soprano, as "Polly"; Allan Rut, wife of the American Opera Company, as "Captain MacLachlan"; John McPherson, baritone, as "Monsieur Peachum"; John McPherson, baritone, as "Monsieur Peachum"; and Alfred Heather, tenor, as "Mr. Dumot."

Ocean Safer Than Lakes

Captain Would Rather Navigate Ship In Deep Waters

On the Great Lakes sailors call men who follow a seasonal occupation. That may sound to salt-water people like an opening for jest. Reasonably, however, it is the fact that when men remain snug on shore during the four or five coldest and stormiest months of the year. Ports and story writers, at least, appear never to have found much appeal in the lives of the summer-time sailors of the inland sea. Literature which would produce thrills must have its heroes face fearful things in winter. To be shattered by the blast between May and November gives more the impression of an unhappy accident than an adventure.

Any who are inclined to that hasty view, however, should form a chum-ming acquaintance with some old lake man and hear his opinion of the comparative ease of salt-water navigation on the Great Lakes. There are miles of seaway in which to keep a ship afloat. Why should a vessel ever be lost under such conditions? Here on these inland seas a ship may not get more than about fifty miles from land. The hurricane that can sail across the Atlantic, on salt water, makes the start on lake and flees catches him on the lakes with no room to flee. An hour or two of headless driving before the wind would bring him on the rocks almost anywhere. Flanking a ship over the rocks, and then it is a matter of time before the ship is under the keel's snail's pace to worry about the lake sailor declares. It is the lake captain's job to know not only his ship, but his shores. He must be not only a seaman, but a pilot, with the experience of 1,000 miles and more between Buffalo and Duluth or Chicago as the field of his special localized knowledge.

One On the Policeman

New York Man Gets Best Of Argument About Parking

The other day a young gentleman parked within ten feet of a fire hydrant in Worth Street, or so a policeman said. "I'm going to give you a ticket," said the policeman. "What a minute," protested the young fellow. "How do I know I am too close to that hydrant?" "I'll show you," the policeman replied. He stepped off the hydrant, ten feet and it came to him and a half feet. "Policeman's feet," "What's that prove?" demanded the young man, who must have been of enormous courage. "Maybe your feet are more important than my feet," the policeman stared at him, dazed and then, muttering feebly, walked away.

Bad Enough Of So

Two sailors in a train were discussing the general situation. Said the first: "When I get done with this hitch, I'm going to get me a pair of nice light shoes, and I'm going to sling them across my shoulder and take 'em to the island. When I finally hit a place where people say 'What are them things you got on your shoulders?'—boy, that's where I'm going to settle down."

Good For Zero Weather

A "heatable" shoe has just been invented by a Hungarian shoemaker. An electric pad is concealed between the inner and outer sole, and the wearer may heat it by attaching a connector in the heel with a wall plug. The best tests about an hour and a half.

Obligations Of Industry

Employers Should Consider Welfare Of Those Who Make Success Possible

Industrialists who consider only profit and loss shorts and do not consider the welfare of the employees who contribute so much to the profits are, in the opinion of Mr. Danton Moore, no farther advanced in their civilization than the cavemen in his. Mr. Moore was speaking at a meeting of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association.

Industry has made a great deal of progress in that direction during the present century, although the progress has come more from without than within. Legislation has compelled the use of safety devices and the taking of many other precautions to prevent accidents, and if there seem to be more accidents than there used to be, that is no doubt due to the fact that there is so much more machinery in operation.

Employers cannot regard callously the training of men and women who may only be cogs in a great industrial machine. They should consider the arm, or even a finger, to lose an eye, or to be crushed badly, causing a person to be handicapped for life, is a deplorable misfortune. Anyone who has had an injured arm and been unable to do it for some days can fully realize this.

There is another form in which employers owe obligations to their workers. That is to make possible security of tenure to the workers. Hands so far as their jobs are concerned. Men may be buying their homes, and if they lose their employment they may lose all they have. There is no more damaging blight on a man's efficiency than the specter of unemployment. An employer should have a strong moral reason, as well as a economic one, before he decides to turn a man out of his job.

Pure Seed Important

Soil Conditions Should Also Be Considered When Selecting Variety

With the wide range of climatic and soil conditions which obtain throughout Canada, purity of variety becomes an important factor. A variety which gives good results in the southern and eastern sections of the Dominion often proves entirely unsuited to the more rigorous conditions of the heavier soils and harder climatic conditions of the north or west. "What's that prove?" demanded the young man, who must have been of enormous courage. "Maybe your feet are more important than my feet," the policeman stared at him, dazed and then, muttering feebly, walked away.

The Dominion Seed Branch are extending the work of purity of variety tests this year. Inspectors of the branch have already obtained samples of the seed of cereals, flax, field peas, and beans, from seedmen throughout Canada. The cereal division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, at the central experimental farm, will test these samples for purity of variety and the results of these tests will be made particularly important to the trade and to Canadian farmers.

In Commercial Cases

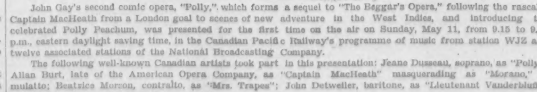

Saskatchewan lignite was placed definitely in the commercial coal class when the first tests to illustrate the utility of the coal were made in Regina, says the Canadian Press. The tests were conducted under the direction of Hon. J. A. Merkle, Provincial Minister of Railways, Labor and Industries. The development of a great coal industry in the southern part of the province is predicted, as well, from the engineers' findings.

Famous Cattle For Canada

A dispatch from the Isle of Jersey states the cattle industry of the island has received a severe shock in the announcement that John Herre, Jersey's foremost breeder, has sold his herd consisting of about 100 head of prime cattle to Messrs. B. H. Hill and Son of Brampton, Ontario. The Jersey breeders regard it as something of a calamity that the herd should be allowed to leave the island.
